Accessing funding and writing submissions is not everyone's cup of tea but by knowing what are the most important elements and how to plan projects so that they can attract funding is not so difficult once you give it a go.

This workshop is a general introduction with a focus on funding for arts and cultural activities including festivals and events, development and infrastructure projects.

Examples of successful funding applications and valuable resources will be made available. Participants will also have an opportunity to tackle an application and receive feedback.
